Subject: Covid-19 (coronavirus) Statement

Dear Valued Customer:

Global events that have unfolded with regards to the Covid-19 (coronavirus) are evolving rapidly. The US and other countries are taking actions to control the potential outbreak. We are monitoring the situation as it relates to our customers, suppliers and products. We recognize that this can be a source of concern for our customers on many levels so would like to update you with regards to any effect that this situation has on our business with you.

At present time we are continuing to operate our production facility as an essential business. We provide essential support to critical sectors, to include Medical, Transportation, Defense and others, so we are committed to continuing operations so long as conditions allow us to do so. To date we have not experienced supply chain nor staffing issues that are having an impact on our ability to continue to support our customer demands.

This global situation is evolving rapidly, so we continue to monitor any potential effects to our business. We will contact you immediately if we see any changes that could potentially affect our ability to support you.

Should you have any questions or require any addition information, please do not hesitate to contact me. Stay Healthy!!

Best regards,

Michael M. McGuire
